WILD HILLS
TERPENES

OUR Journey

Welcome to Wild Hills, where we proudly lead the way in 100% pure cannabis-derived Terpenes.

Ethically sourced and expertly cultivated with the ancient wisdom of Andean and Himalayan cultures.

Through our dedication to personally source the highest quality genetics from across the globe, we provide our customers and partners with the largest catalogue the world has seen.

From growing and extracting, processing and packaging our commitment to ethically sourced purity is in every drop of our 100% cannabis-derived terpenes. Here, you'll unearth a connection between the medicinal power of cannabis and the ancient land which it was discovered..

We are here to find our tribe of the conscious creators and cannabis enthusiasts who care deeply about natural purity, traditional cultivation and are seeking to discover the highest potential of what this powerful plant has to offer.

Embark on a journey to Wild Hills, as we redefine the cannabis industry by going to the roots of its traditional cultivation with the best selection of genetic varieties that we have personally sourced from across the globe.

At the heart of the Wild Hill's mission is our commitment to our indigenous growing community that are the source of our inspiration and passion.

Our vision is to set the standards of environmental and social responsibility in the cannabis industry by reconnecting with ancient traditions of cannabis cultivation.

Quality Product

We hand-harvest the finest flowers from terpene-rich genetics to ensure the highest quality product.

Pure Extraction

Our process is free from solvents, guaranteeing the purest product and protecting the land.

Community Empowerment

Improving standards of living and financial sustainability for our growing communities.

Blending ancient wisdom with modern techniques

The story of Wild Hills begins in 2015, in a remote valley of the Himalayas. Here, two travels met a community thriving in natural abundance and ancient wisdom in cannabis cultivation.

By introducing modern techniques of terpene extraction, Wild Hills established its connection with the community through offering a safe alternative to the black market teaching them how to create a product free from cannabinoids for safe transportation to a worldwide market.

Together, they laid the groundwork for a business model rooted in fairness and cooperation, fostering a network of collaborators and communities that would become the heart and soul of Wild Hills.

By partnering with Wild Hills, you will join our mission to create harmony with nature and the people harnessing its ancient wisdom to create products which support lasting social change.

WILD HILLS
TERPENES

THE Wild Hills Method

At Wild Hills, we've journeyed across the globe, exploring diverse cannabis cultivation practices in different environments and cultures.

This adventure has allowed us to blend modern permaculture techniques from North America and Europe with the ancient wisdom of our Andean and Himalayan partners. This fusion optimizes plant growth with natural sunlight, living soil, and mineral-rich spring water, all while upholding sustainability and organic principles to ensure soil health and long-lasting cultivation.

FROM SEED TO CONSUMER

PRODUCTION

We honor the plant's natural growth cycle by utilizing sunlight, live soil, and mineral-rich spring water. Once the crops reach optimal terpene and trichome levels, we begin hand-harvesting.

Each 1ml of our Terpenes contains between 500 grams to 1 kilo of cannabis.

MANUFACTURING

Within 30 minutes of harvesting, live flowers reach our processing laboratory, crucial for preserving each strain's distinct characteristics and maximizing benefits.

Our extraction equipment, custom-built with top European and North American techniques, guarantees that no solvents ever taint the distillation process or the indigenous lands of Wild Hills.

DISTRIBUTION

Oil is cold cured to enhance the flavours and stored in glass to preserve the quality and purity of Wild Hills Terpenes. Then it is transported to Amsterdam where our team of experts for final quality check.

When we receive an order, we carefully package the oil into our packaging, which has been carefully selected to provide you and your customers with everything they will need to create their own infusions.

Botanical terpenes are herbal formulations replicating, but containing no cannabis.

⊗ Replications of cannabis with limited effect

Blended from aromatic plants and organic substances, botanical terpenes can be produced at a significantly lower cost. However, they lack the complexity to achieve the same therapeutic and synergistic effects as cannabis-derived terpenes.

⊗ Artificial formulation with misleading purity

Botanical terpenes formulated with chemical reactions using harsh solvents to replicate the flavour complexity of cannabis. This not only degrades the terpene compounds but also poses health risks.

500g to 1kg of cannabis distilled into every 1ml of Wild Hills Terpenes.

✓ Transparent production with quality effect

Our 100% cannabis-derived terpenes contain between 90 and 200 compounds, creating a complex taste and smell cannot be replicated. This quality ensures consistent results pertaining to the synergistic, therapeutic effects induced by the oil.

✓ Pure extraction with accurate formulations.

Our extraction process ensures consistency with each harvest. This commitment guarantees the purest quality for our customers to experience the full compound effects of their chosen genetic.

Our Answers To Your Questions

Do you have a standardized price list for wholesale?

Currently, our sales are facilitated through personalized interactions. To explore purchasing options and know pricing details, please reach out to us via our “Join The Tribe” contact form.

Do Wild Hills Terpenes provide customized formulations?

We are open to collaborating with our tribe members to develop exclusive strains from provided special cuts and seeds. We can even provide you with one of our genetics to use in your own pheno-hunting process.

Do you offer white label?

Yes, we are actively seeking collaborative partners who wish to create products using our 100% cannabis-derived terpenes and share our values of sustainability, quality, and fair trade.

What safety measures should be taken when using Wild Hills Terpenes?

When using any essential oil, caution and correct uses must be followed as it's an extremely concentrated product.

Do Wild Hills Terpenes contain cannabinoids?

No, all our terpenes are extracted from the source of the plant and are cannabinoid-free, including THC and CBD.

HOW TO Infuse Terpenes

Infusing Wild Hills Terpenes using the container included in your purchase is a simple method for enhancing the aroma and flavor of flower, hash, or extracts.

Creating Your Own Distillate Product:

◆ MIXING

Gentle heating can assist in the mixing process, ideally using a magnetic stirring hot plate, although hand mixing with stainless steel or glass can also achieve similar results.

◆ TESTING

We recommend to perform small-scale tests to gather consumer feedback before scaling up production.

◆ DOCUMENTATION

Always keep detailed records of your formulations, including the type and concentration of terpenes and method of mixing.

Step By Step Guide For Your Customers

01 PREPARE YOUR CANNABIS

Ensure cannabis flower, hash, or extracts are properly cured and dried. Place the cannabis into a plastic sealed container with space for mixing and the curing process.

02 ADD WILD HILLS TERPENES

For quick use, we recommend wrapping the flower or hash in a rolling paper and adding 1-5 drops of Wild Hills Terpenes per gram. Terpenes are potent, so it's advisable to wear gloves to avoid direct skin contact and potential irritation.

03 INFUSE & ENJOY

Tightly seal the container to evenly distribute the terpenes throughout the cannabis product. You can also let the mixture sit for several hours or more to allow for better absorption. Remember, the longer the terpenes infuse, the more powerful the smell becomes. So, check the container periodically to adjust the terpene concentration if necessary. Terpene absorption can take some time, so be patient during this process.

After achieving the desired terpene infusion, store the container in a cool, dark place for a curing period. This allows the terpenes to further integrate with the cannabis product. Check the quality, aroma, and flavor of your infused cannabis product. Make any final adjustments to the concentration to reach your desired effect.

Using Wild Hill's high quality terpenes guarantees an accurate representation of the desired flavours of your chosen genetic across a range of cannabis products.

Infusion of terpenes is a renowned technique for enhancing the sensory properties of the source compound of the flower. When working with 100% cannabis derived terpenes, you should be cautious about the concentration, as high levels can be overpowering or even irritating.

Here are our expert recommendations for concentration levels, which vary for different products.

E-Liquids

1 - 5%

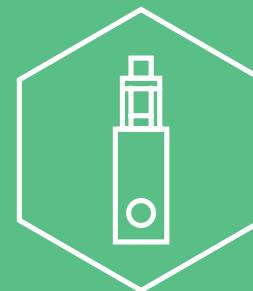

Diluted for electronic vaporizers

Oils

0.5 - 3%

Concentrated extract stored in tinctures

Vapes

5 - 10%

Undiluted extract for distillate cartridges

Edibles

0.1 - 1%

Gummies, chocolate and baked goods

Beverages

0.1 - 0.5%

Teas, sodas
and cocktails

Candles

1 - 5%

Soy wax, paraffin wax
and beeswax

Topicals

0.5 - 3%

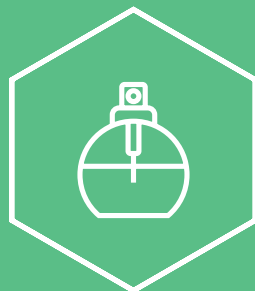

Creams, balms
and lotions

Incense

1 - 5%

Incense sticks
and cones

Cosmetics

0.1 - 5%

Perfumes, lotions
and creams

Aromatherapy

0.1 - 5%

Diffusers, inhalers
and steamers

Our terpenes can be infused into various products, offering non-psychoactive homeopathic therapies

Even without cannabinoids, our essential oil's terpenes act as effective synergizing agents, enhancing the therapeutic effects of other ingredients as well as their own.

Our concentration guide enables customers to experience enhanced aroma and flavor, maximizing the value of their Wild Hills purchase.

Simply infuse our terpenes as you would any other essential oil.
